Family Advocacy

The Family Advocacy Program (FAP) focuses on building healthy Air Force communities by preventing, intervening in and treating family maltreatment. The FAMILY ADVOCACY components include:

Prevention

Outreach: With a strong focus on education, training and collaboration to help strengthen military families, this service is a true resource to the installation. The Outreach Managers offer parenting classes, couples communication and relationship classes, stress and anger awareness/management classes on a quarterly basis. Additionally, briefings can be provided to agencies, units and the general public on topics such as child supervision, family violence, couples communication and anger management. The Outreach Managers work with leaders and agencies on and off base to identify resources for military families, foster working relationships, and increase awareness of family violence. Family Advocacy Strength-based Therapy (FAST) is a service that focuses on prevention counseling and is offered on a space available basis.

New Parent Support Program (NPSP)

This voluntary program provides support, counseling, and education to expectant parents or parents with children up to three years of age. Services are primarily provided through home visits. Educational opportunities and resources include parenting, breastfeeding, and information for expectant fathers.

Intervention

Treatment: The focus is on clinical services to military personnel and their families by identifying and treating incidents of child and spouse maltreatment or neglect. Treatment options include individual, marital and family therapy, consultation, case management, and crisis intervention.

Safety planning, advocacy, resources and information are available through the Domestic Abuse Victim Advocates (DAVA). To encourage early identification of domestic abuse and help victims get the care they need, the military provides options for both restricted and unrestricted reporting of adult domestic abuse.

Inspector General

(Complaints Resolution)

The Inspector General serves commanders/directors and their assigned organizations by executing the complaint resolution process designed to:

- Indicate where commander involvement is needed to correct systemic, programmatic, or procedural weaknesses and ensures resources are used effectively and efficiently
- Resolve issues affecting the Air Force mission promptly and objectively
- Create an atmosphere of trust in which issues can be objectively and fully resolved without retaliation or the fear of reprisal
- Assist commanders in instilling confidence in Air Force leadership

MATTERS (COMPLAINTS) APPROPRIATE FOR THE IG

Fraud, waste, and abuse or gross mismanagement; a violation of law, policy, procedures, instructions, or regulations; an injustice; abuse of authority, inappropriate conduct, misconduct, and allegations of restriction or reprisal.

IF YOU HAVE A COMPLAINT

Use your chain or command or local resources first; contact the IG if you're still unable to resolve the issue.

Mental Health

- Treatment Services: The Mental Health Clinic offers individual and group counseling to individuals experiencing difficulty with personal or relational problems. Medication evaluation and treatment is also available.
- Educational Classes: The Mental Health Clinic offers a wide variety of psycho-educational classes designed to help individuals cope and function more effectively. Stress and Anger Management are popular classes that are offered frequently.
- Outreach: The goal of Outreach is to reduce the stigma associated with mental health. We can be invited to attend your unit's PT sessions, do an informal unit social visit and provide briefings on any mental health related topic.
- Suicide Prevention: The Mental Health Clinic can provide suicide prevention information to all personnel. The goal is to reduce stigma and train personnel to identify individuals at risk and intervene appropriately.
- Disaster Mental Health: Disaster Mental Health services are designed to help personnel involved in a potentially traumatic event understand and process their reactions in order to speed recovery and prevent later problems. We can provide education and consultation within 24-48 hours of a Commander's request.
- Crisis Intervention: Available for those individuals who are suicidal or having severe difficulty coping. Emergency evaluations may be available at a Commander's request for individuals they feel may be suicidal, homicidal, or unable to care for themselves.

*If a crisis occurs outside of regular duty hours, report to the Eglin Emergency Room.

*Appointments can be made by calling the Mental Health Clinic directly or by referral from your Primary Care Manager.

*Family Members of active duty and retired military seen on a space available basis.
